MOWING GRASS.

EMILIE POULSSON,
Moderato, mf

German Folk Song.

1. Pe-ter, Pe-ter, quick-ly go To the fields the grass to mow;
2. Now we thank our friends, each one,—Pe-ter for the mow-ing down,

mf

Ju-l-y grass and hay so sweet, Bring them for the cow to eat.
Li-na for the milk-bug, too, And for milk, good cow, thank you.

* Li-na, Li-na, milk the cow: Good sweet milk she gives us now,
Thanks to all are glad-ly said: Bak-er, thank you for the bread.

rit. a tempo.
Milk to drink with rolls or bread,— Thus the lit-tle ones are fed.
Thanks dear Mother shall not miss,— Giv-en with a lov-ing kiss.

rit. a tempo.

* Pronounced Lee-na.

BECKONING THE CHICKENS.

EMILY HUNTINGTON MILLER.

W. W. GILCHRIST.

Moderately quick.

Ti-ny fin-gers in a row, Beckon to the chickens so:—

Down-y lit-tle chickens dear,— Fin-gers say, "Come here, come here,

Chick! chick! cluck! chick! cluck! 'Fingers say,' Come here, come here, -

Pretty chickens, soft and small. Do not fear, we love you all.'....

BECKONING THE PIGEONS.

EMILIE VOULBON. Arranged from KARL REINECKE, by ELEANOR SMITH.
Andantino.

Oh, call the pigeons, ba-by dear. And beckon them to you.

You'll hear them an-swer lov-ing-ly, Coo-oo, coo-coo, coo-coo.

THE FISH IN THE BROOK.

Words adapted from "Music for the Kindergarten," by ELEANOR HERBERT.

Arranged from
ROBERT KOHL, by E. S.

Allegretto.

Mer-ry and swift in the crys-tal stream,

Sil-ver-y lit-tle fish-es gleam.

Dart-ing here, skim-ming there; grace-ful and free

They dive, they rise, How hap-py they must be!
